Explore ways to boost your production, performance and profit.
Interactive sessions will allow you to learn from experts in healthy soils, grazing land management and regenerative agriculture.

Turn over for more information about presenters Nicole Masters (Integrity Soils), Dick Richardson (Grazing Naturally) and Bob Shepherd (DAF).

Learn how to:

- ✓ Retain land condition in dry times and protect your ground cover
- ✓ Manage livestock to match stocking rate to carrying capacity
- ✓ Enhance the resilience of your property through management
- ✓ Use grazing and living organisms to improve soil health
- ✓ Generate ecological shift and the function of ecological communities
- ✓ Improve your bottom line through soil biology

This workshop is supported by Fitzroy Basin Association Inc and is delivered through the Queensland Government's Enhanced Extension Coordination program. Funding is provided through the Australian Government's National Landcare Program and Queensland Government Reef Water Quality Program.

Dick Richardson Grazing Naturally

Dick Richardson is internationally recognised as a leader and innovator in the world of regenerative grazing management.

Having spent a lifetime on the land working on multiple continents, in large and small operations, Dick has built up a wealth of experience and knowledge. Dick has an amazing ability to combine information, experience and intuition into simple practical application.

He is the developer of Grazing Naturally – a simple technique of grazing to develop and invigorate biological communities to drive ecosystem function.

Bob Shepherd Principal Extension Officer, DAF

With 42 years of industry experience under his belt, Bob specialises in managing grazing lands using a range of practices, including: matching stocking rate to carrying capacity and the remediation of severely degraded grazing land.

Nicole Masters Founder & Director Integrity Soils

Nicole Masters is an independent agroecologist, systems thinker and educator. With over 20 years experience, she is a knowledgeable and dynamic speaker on the topic of soil health.

Late last year, Nicole released a book titled For the Love of Soil. The book is a land manager's roadmap to healthy soil in challenging times and has received outstanding reviews from many; including Gabe Brown, one of the pioneers of regenerative agriculture.
